In this life, a man chooses something either with his head or with his heart. And often these two choices have completely different directions.

The head is the centre of all our thoughts, and the heart is the centre of all our feelings.

Every step we take in our lives follows either one or the other.

Yet it is no secret that what the head wants is different from what the heart wants.

*So, for example, the head is pushed
us somewhere up,*

...whereas the heart longs for a little bit of dreaming.

The head calls forward, to conquer something,

...whereas the heart simply worries about a friend...

The head calls for us to have a career,

*...whereas the heart, for some reason,
dreams of new friends.*

The head is seeking for something extravagant,

...whereas the heart just needs simplicity and humor.

The head encourages us to set new records,

...whereas the heart just wants to have a...

...heart-to-heart talk with somebody.

The head dreams of delicious food,

*...whereas for the heart
it is important to feed others.*

The head has a tendency to act,

...whereas the heart tends to hope and believe.

*The human heart is not big. However, it conceals within itself such large things as the aspiration
for the sublime,*

... and beautiful.

In the heart there is care for friends and relatives,

... great loyalty and devotion,

...sense of harmony.

*The heart gives us
the joy of friendship,*

...the joy of new meetings,

...the joy of communication.

*Certainly, the head is very important for our lives.
Especially in the modern world of high technology.*

However, it is always worth remembering that it is not the head that fills us with happiness...

An underwater photograph showing a large, irregular opening in a rocky reef structure. The opening reveals a clear blue sky. The surrounding reef is covered in vibrant, colorful coral in shades of orange, yellow, pink, and purple. The text is centered within the blue opening.
