There are a number of theories in existence on the subject of the evolution of mankind.

The authors of this light-hearted photo book, having deeply contemplated the question, have decided to put forward their own version.

*Once upon a time,
me...*

my friend...*

...began thinking seriously about evolution and came to some interesting conclusions

In the beginning, life was pretty good for a human.

Out of boredom he decided to build a bigger home,

...and then a bigger one.

*After that he wanted it to be written down somewhere that this home belonged to him.
That is then the first lawyers appeared on earth.*

*Then he started to worry about the possibility of his home burning down.
That is then the first firemen appeared on earth.*

After further thought, he decided that he needed to get a dog to guard his home.

*Then, a human continued to live and as the result of his activities,
came forth the designers,*

...singers,

...poets,

...and politicians.

Ater all of that, the man soon became bored again. But just then something drove past his home that made him forget about boredom.

*By gathering
the best gifts
and the favorite
dessert, a man
went to introduce himself and
make a good impression.*

*It worked!
But not long after that children
began to appear...*

*...and then
more children.*

*One day her mother
arrived to his home...*

*...with her
washing
machine.*

Man began to worry...

He suddenly wanted to fly somewhere far, far away,

...with his favourite cow.

However, he still decided to consult the local sage first, about the place where he could hide from everybody.

*And
after that
the first diver
appeared
on earth...*

Understanding the concept of evolution my friend and I also went diving.

*Even though on this day
on our way along the shore...*

*...there were yet again
many different mermaids,*

...but having understood the fundamental principles of human evolution, we did not lost the correct path that day...

...and made the right choice.
